

Stan Goss

Keynote Speaker

Did you know that the average American today has a good chance of living to be 100 years old?

Are you aware of the enormous impact that our American demographics will have on the lives of each of us? The way we look at everything- careers, finances, education, health care- will change.

20 years ago, at the age of 52, Stan Goss boldly embarked on pioneering a career in the brand new profession of Executive Coaching. During the course of the last 20 years, Stan has built one of the most successful and prestigious Senior Executive Coaching and Leadership Development practices in the U.S. He has provided counsel and wisdom to many of America's top business leaders in a wide variety of industries including Financial Services, Oil and Gas, Health Care, Network News Broadcasting, National Retail and Power and Energy Production. He has been dubbed the "Dean of Executive Coaches" by his peers and has personally mentored dozens of strong Executive Coaches.

Now, at the ripe young age of 72, Stan is once again embarking on an exciting new venture which promises to propel him to the highest ranks of American speakers.

Stan is a living example of his message "Retire, Rewire and Refire." His message is a wake-up call announcing the staggering reality of the new demographics of a population that is living longer than ever before. While his message is one which produces a provocative "gee whiz I didn't know that" effect on his audiences, it's also delivered with humor, real life stories and inspiration and encouragement for people of all ages.

Few speakers today are as relevant and topical for such a wide audience of Americans.

Every segment of our society will be affected by the changes coming our way. Stan Goss's message will not only provoke our thinking, but will provide bold and fresh ideas for positively and effectively dealing with these changes.
